

2022-23 Academic Year Information

Faculty are responsible for supporting GDBBS students according to the scenarios below.

1. PhD student who has reached their 22nd month in the program.
2. MD/PhD student who has reached their 10th month in the program.
3. Students transferring with faculty, and who will obtain an Emory degree - Faculty are responsible for stipend and sponsor tuition costs from point of enrollment.

The below pertains to items 1 – 3 above:

Sponsor Tuition - Currently $8,841 annually; charged monthly.

This fee may be waived if the student receives a grant/fellowship that minimally supports $8,841 of tuition costs.

Stipend - Currently $35,175 annually; charged monthly, $2,931.25.

If student receives a grant/fellowship that supports stipend, the faculty will be responsible for the difference the grant does not support so that the student receives $35,175 minimally.

4. Transient students transferring with faculty, and who will not obtain an Emory degree:
Stipend - The amount and source of the student stipend is determined by the Emory advisor and the host graduate program. If the student receives their stipend from Emory the faculty member will be charged sponsor tuition, $8,841 annually; charged monthly. These students would be eligible to enroll in Emory's Student Health Insurance Plan. If the stipend is paid by the host graduate program, the sponsor tuition is not charged and the student is not eligible to enroll in Emory's Students Health Insurance Plan.

For more information regarding non-degree students please visit <https://www.gs.emory.edu/admissions/non-degree/>.

Student Fees are also charged to the student. These are the responsibility of the student, although some external fellowships will pay fees. The advisor may pay the student's fees, but this should be arranged individually between the advisor and the student. Fees are projected to increase annually.

Please visit <http://www.gs.emory.edu/funding/tuition.html> for the current rates. Student Fees include the following:

- Transcript (one time)
- activity
- athletic
- computing
- mental health
- enrollment

The transient students pay the activity, athletic, computing and mental health fee for every semester they are registered at Emory.
